We fix our gaze on
ST. ADALBERT
Patron of the Parish

The holy bishop was born of a noble family in Bohemia in 956. Destined for God's service, he received his early education under St. Adalbert of Magdeburg. Shortly after his ordination, the young man was raised to the bishopric of Prague. His first care was to divide the revenues of his see into four parts: one devoted to the upkeep of fabrics and ornaments of the church, a second to the maintenance of his canons, a third to the relief of the poor, while the fourth he reserved for his own use and that of his household and guests.

Fired with holy zeal, he preached assidously and visited the poor in their homes and the prisoners in their dungeons. Discouraged by his failure to make an impression upon his flock, he left his see for Rome. Recalled by Duke Boleslaus, he returned hoping to receive support from civil power in his work. His political opponents made it impossible for him to perform his duties, and shortly afterward he again left Prague for the monastery in Rome.

Empowered by Pope Gregory V to preach the gospel to the heathen if he found it impossible to return to Bohemia, rather than provoke bloodshed by a return to his native land, Adalbert turned aside to visit his friend, Duke Boleslaus of Poland. Under the patronage of the latter, he directed his efforts to the conversion of pagan Prussians. With his companions he made converts in Danzig but was ordered to leave by those opposed to his work. Refusing to abandon their Christian mission, Adalbert and his brethren were done to death on April 23, 997. Adalbert's body was thrown into the water and, being washed up on the Polish coast, it was eventually enshrined in Gniezno; in 1039 the relics were translated by force to Prague.

Our Christian Powerhouse of Education

The birthdate of St. Adalbert Parish as given in the records of the Pittsburgh diocese, is May 1883. Growing out of a crying need of the newly settled Poles for services in a tongue known to them, the second oldest Polish parish in Pittsburgh owes its existence to the zealous efforts of members of St. Adalbert's committee. Under the guidance of the first assigned pastor, Rev. Victor Zareczny, the faith and generosity of the Poles resulted in the initiation of work on the erection of a church building. St. John's parish on 14th Street graciously provided facilities for the divine liturgy each Sunday in the course of the building. With frequent changes of resident pastors and the filling of the interim by Polish priests of religious congregations, the task of building was greatly impeded. By 1884 the parishioners were able to offer their prayers in a temple of their own.

The appointment of Rev. Ladislaus Miskiewicz in 1885 provided the impetus for expansion. The steady stream of immigrants necessitated an edifice of larger proportions. Under his leadership the present church building took form at a cost of $80,000. In October of 1890 the church was dedicated by Rt. Rev. R. Phelan.

In 1911, during the pastorate of Rev. John Gorzynski, the needed repairs were combined with the work of remodeling at a cost of $22,000. It was then that the 150 foot steeples were removed. In 1923, thanks to his efforts the wooden altars were replaced by marble ones costing $40,000. These were consecrated on November 29, 1923 by Rt. Rev. Archbishop Regis Canevin, Bishop H. Boyle, and Bishop J. Swint. As a preparation for the Golden Jubilee in 1923 the buildings were sandblasted on the outside and renovated on the interior at a cost of $20,000.

The present pastor, Rev. Ladislaus Rokosz, from the time of his arrival in the parish as pastor in 1942, has continued the work of his predecessors, Rev. Joseph Frania, and Rev. Theodore Schultz, maintaining the buildings in condition and making improvements: periodic renovations, roof repairs, storm windows, so that the value of the church property now exceeds a half-million dollars.

It was here that through the decades hundreds of our forebears received spiritual life through Baptism, were restored to God's friendship through Penance, opened their hearts to the Eucharistic Christ, professed loyalty to God through Confirmation, sanctified their love through Matrimony, gained strength and grace through participation in the Mass, and made a final stop after death before being laid to rest in the parish cemetery.

Direct and fashion men to purity

Rev. Ladislaus Rokosz
Pastor of St. Adalbert Parish

Graduation time brings into focus the enormity of our debt for a truly Catholic education to our beloved pastor, Father Rokosz. Blessed with his paternal interest, our school days at St. A's High will remain memorable for all time to come. We acknowledge his efficient stewardship in the material well-being of the parish, and in the new edifice nearing completion. We express our sincere thanks for all and promise to show forth the fruits of a fine Catholic education by becoming worthy adult parishioners.

We go forth into life knowing that our feet have been set on the right road and that the prayers of our assistant pastors follow us. The many services rendered, the guidance bestowed on us, have marked them indelibly in our hearts and minds. May God's blessing enable them to lead many others onward.

Our Parish Priests

of morals and integrity of life.

Chosen from among men to represent men in their dealings with God, our priests are the "other Christs" caring for our spiritual welfare. Through their ministry our lives have become enriched by the greatest Sacrifice – Mass, the sacraments, the word of God, and prayerful support. With them and through them we offer ourselves and all that is ours to God. To them we look for guidance in attaining our final goal.

"Perfect schools are not so much the result of good methods as of good teachers." How well experience has convinced us of the truth of the papal sentence. We are deeply grateful to our teachers for their continued efforts in forming our patterns of thought, in placing before us high ideals, in instilling in us principles of correct living. As we bid our fond adieu, we can assure you that the fine example you have set before us by your life of dedication and service will be remembered and emulated. 75 years of Christian Education

St. Adalbert School

St. Adalbert School had its humble beginnings in the basement of a rectory where in September of 1885 Rev. Ladislaus Miskiewicz, then pastor, attempted to provide education for the youngsters of the parish. For lack of space, this school was limited to one classroom of 120 children taught by Mr. John Bruchwalski. The following year the increase in enrollment necessitated partitioning of the church building into several classrooms on weekdays to serve as schoolrooms. When in 1890 the present church building was erected, the old building was converted into a school containing 9 classrooms on the lower two floors and an auditorium on the third floor.

With the rapid growth of the parish it became imperative to seek additional quarters. For years the problem was solved by setting up the "portables" in the parish lot now being occupied by the new auditorium. Here, under conditions far from favorable, many of the present day parishioners obtained their grade school education.

Due to the location of the school near the railroad tracks, both the teachers and students were greatly inconvenienced in performing their tasks by noise made by trains in passing In June of 1944 when an opportunity to buy a neighboring public school presented itself, the pastor, Rev. Ladislaus Rokosz, purchased the building, renovated it, and presented it as school quarters for students returning in September. It was here that St. Adalbert High School was born in September of 1944 with the formation of a ninth grade. On May 28 of 1947 when Sister Mary Laurentia was principal, Dr. Edwin Cruttenden of the State Department of Public Instruction made a supervisory visit prior to accrediting the high school. In January of the following year while Sister Mary Eugenia was principal, the task was completed.

The acitivity of the Felician Sisters of St. Adalbert School dates back to 1888. At the request of Rev. L. Miskiewicz, three Sisters from the Detroit Province under Mother Mary Cajetan assumed the task of educating the youth of the parish. Through the ensuing years the Sisters from the Coraopolis Province have labored with their number growing until at the present time 16 sisters with Sister Mary Chrysostom as principal devote their energies to the greatest task – the Christian Education of Youth.

A true Christian lives a supernatural

Amid the cares, joys, and trials of daily living, the Church stands as a beacon of hope. The focal point of religious devotion – the Mass, the divinely efficacious means of grace – the Sacraments, the sacred ritual so wonderfully instructive, the material fabric of the churches with its art and liturgy – all loudly proclaim the transient nature of things temporal, and draw our attention to the duty of making manifest in our mortal flesh the life of Christ that will merit for us the beatific vision.

Although we leave school, we go forth confidently knowing that the sacramental and devotional treasures of the Church will be ours to use throughout life.

Religion in Daily Life.

During the years of its existence, St. Adalbert Parish has given spiritual birth through Baptism to 16,705 souls. The first recorded Baptism is that of Antonina Dembowski by Rev. Victor Zareczny on February 24, 1884. The last recorded baptismal event is that of Ralph George Schimborski by Rev. Ferdiand Sojka on January 26, 1958.

The parish has sanctified the love of man and woman and begged God's blessing on their wedded life through the sacrament of Matrimony 4257 times in the course of its 75 years of spiritual service. The first marriage recorded is that of Casimir Fifer and Mary Migawa by Rev. Victor Zareczny on April 14, 1884. The marriage of David G. McKenna and Anna May Bartirome by Rev. Ignatius Aranowski on February 8, 1958 is the last recorded.

The primary purpose of the Catholic educational system is to help man attain his final goal. It, therefore, becomes necessary that all teaching, the whole organization of the school, its teachers, syllabus, and textbooks in every branch be regulated by the Christian spirit, under the direction and maternal supervision of the Church. We express our deep appreciation to our Alma Mater for enriching our lives with principles by faithfully carrying out the papal injunction on the Christian Education of Youth.

Seniors, James Wesolowski, Roberta Siwik, Victor Hajduk, Phyllis Rogowski, and Eileen Narlesky consider their future possibilities in the fields of higher education, government, and secretarial work.

Continued efforts of the three South Side Catholic high schools to bring unity and cooperation have resulted in the formation of Admica. This group, headed by Rev. Edward Hennessey, C. P., of St. Michael High School, consists of student council members from St. Adalbert, St. Michael, and St. Casimir Schools. With Carol Klawinski of St. Adalbert's as president, this group is doing much to promote friendliness among the schools, to provide civic betterment of their community, and to give youth the spiritual lift they need.

The Student Council under the direction of Sister Mary Chrysostom, principal, convenes monthly to plan activities that will enrich the lives of the students. John Kuczynski, president, and his staff, William Baczkowski, vice president, Carole Klawinski, recording secretary, and Lorraine Cichowicz, treasurer, gladly offer their services to make St. A's the finest school possible.

Admica's sponsors, Rev. Edward Hennessey of St. Michael's, Sister Mary Gabriella of St. Casimir's, and Sister Mary Chrysostom of St. Adalbert's meet with the officers of the organization, Carole Klawinski, Arla Muha, Daniel Donahue, and Margaret Guthrie to consider proposals for future action.

Christian Mothers exhibit charity by serving the Ring Day breakfast.

Church organizations in the parish are numerous; they are of varied kinds ranging from those for youngsters to those for adults, from those purely spiritual in nature to those actively engaged in services of charity. Why have such groups? What is their value and the reason for their existence?

The church societies are meant to benefit the individual members and the parish as a whole. Since the prime duty of life is the salvation of the soul, these organizations are instruments by which we, as members of the Mystical Body of Christ, perfect ourselves and then extend our work to our brethren. The prayers, retreats, group reception of the Sacraments, participation in church services are all potent helps towards the attainment of this goal.

Realizing that man is a social being, these groups provide members and others with forms of recreation while at the same time materially aiding the parish in its task of maintenance. Dances, bingos, luncheons, are but few such activities.

We gratefully acknowledge spiritual and temporal aid showered on us during the years spent in school. In time to come we plan to assume and perform duties as members of church organizations.

The subject of Christian education is man, whole and entire, soul united to body in unity of nature, with all his faculties natural and supernatural. For this reason physical culture, as it is called, cannot be considered outside the range of the maternal supervision of the Church, since it is also a means which may help or harm Christian education. Our sports and gym activities are undertaken with the development of a sound body in mind. As a temple for our immortal soul, the body receives its share of training in the Catholic educational system.

Diligent Freshmen

Awakening the impulse to perfection in the young . . .

P. Fedak, L. Godek, P. Galore, P. Guzowski, and L. Karwoski escort their homeroom teacher to the convent after a day in class.

Catholic Education

Cognizant of her role, the Church, set by her Divine Author as the pillar and ground of truth to teach the divine faith to men, to keep whole and inviolate the deposit confided to her, to fashion men in all their actions individually and socially to purity of morals and integrity of life, finds it necessary not only to give religious instruction to the young at certain fixed periods, but to see that every subject taught is permeated with Christian piety. Only if this sacred atmosphere pervades and warms the hearts of teachers and students alike, can good be expected from any kind of learning.

Our was the good fortune to be blessed with such Catholic education. We promise to live a life that will bear witness to the rich heritage that is ours.

Class officers, K. Zagorski, E. Kowalski, S. Biedrzycki, and C. Kenney, represent Freshman choice.

Science-minded Freshies, M. Zielinski, R. Wallace, N. Rogowski, B. Dugan, B. Nasiadka, E. Kozlowski, C. Zawakzki, G. Kobus, and K. Zagorski, devote Saturday morning to work on projects.
